

GDPR General Data Protection Regulation

General

We respect the privacy committed to our customers, employees and suppliers and do not pass them to third parties.

For all confidential projects and data which we share with our clients and suppliers, a confidentiality agreement must be signed in order to exchange Know-How (as technical drawings, etc.).

The European Data Protection Supervisor

For questions on data security or disclaiming the agreement please contact us:

E-Mail

E-mails and email attachments can be processed internally and will not be transferred to third parties.

After unsubscribing from the newsletter, you can register only in writing after May 24 2018.

In order to prevent mistakes, each registration or cancellation must be confirmed in writing and it will be internally processed in accordance with Controll Change.

Attachments to e-mails may only be sent and received as unchangeable PDF-files or pictures.

All modifiable data as CAD, text files or spreadsheets may be sent or received only after signing of confidentiality agreement.

Homepages

Personal data may not be published on the homepage www.ruba-caps.eu. We use neither plugins for social media or other plugins as cookies, we do not communicate with other services as for example Google Analytics.

Personal data must be communicated by e-mail, such as name, address, e-mail address, etc.

This is based on voluntary basis, generally for sending of samples or communication via e-mail.

Please note that data transmission using internet (for example during the communication by e-mail) can show security breaches. It is not possible to protect such data completely against acces by third parties.

We point out that we accepted the "ADV" (order date processing) from our hoster. It means that an evaluation of countries/operating system is possible, which we partially also evaluate.
